

Timber Legality Research Symposium

October 17 2018 | Copenhagen, Denmark

Call for abstracts

exploring the cutting edge of timber legality research

Abstracts are welcomed that share contemporary research on timber legality, specifically:

- compliance and verification of logging and trade
- governance changes and challenges in forests, trade networks or markets
- livelihood/justice changes and challenges in forests, trade networks or markets

Interested presenters are strongly encouraged to propose panels of 3-5 presentations. Panels will be preferred over individual paper presentations.

The Timber Legality Research Symposium is an output of ProdJus (Supranational Forest Governance in an Era of Globalising Wood Production and Justice Politics) and will be held in association with the FLARE network (Forests & Livelihoods: Assessment, Research, and Engagement) and adjacent to the FLARE Annual Meeting October 17-20, 2018. For more information <http://www.forestlivelihoods.org/annual-meeting-2018>.

Scientific findings will be relevant for:

- policy makers
- civil society stakeholders
- industry stakeholders
- scholars

For more information and abstract submission instructions, visit symposium.prodjus.eu

Abstract submission deadline: April 1, 2018

Questions can be addressed to:

Rodd Myers

rodd.myers@uea.ac.uk

Christian Pilegaard Hansen

cph@ifro.ku.dk

hosted by

UNIVERSITY OF COPENHAGEN

in association with

GLOBAL ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE GROUP