Background and History

For more than 20 years, The Land Connection has actively worked to build a more just and equitable food and farming system for Illinois. Beginning with a small farm in central Illinois rented to organic farmers to preserve this land, our organization has since expanded to offer training, education, and resources to farmers, food businesses, and consumers. As we head into the next iteration of our organization's history, we have identified the need for a statewide farmland access program. Currently, there is no single source for farmers and landowners in Illinois to access the resources and assistance needed to sell, purchase, or lease farmland. Our solution is the creation of a new collaborative effort called the Illinois Farmland Access Initiative. The initiative consists of five core elements:

- An inclusive and coordinated network of technical resources and service providers, the Farmland Access Hub, that fully represents the diversity of Illinois' food and farming system;
- Farmland Access Navigators embedded across the state to provide one-on-one direct service to farmers and farmland owners;
- A moderated statewide Illinois Farmlink Website to connect farmland owners, including non-operating landowners and retiring farmers, and farmers with land, resources, and each other;
- Farmland Access Trainings specifically tailored for Illinois farmers and landowners; and
- Farmland Succession and Transition Support, designed for Illinois non-operating landowners and retiring farmers
