

Once a year, colleges and universities are required to submit a report to the City of Boston by October 1 that includes the following:

- a summary of student enrollment and statistics on where they live
- a list, including addresses, of students living off campus in Boston, and
- a list of all school buildings used for housing

Below is the University Accountability Report (summary) for 2017-2018.

Based on a BPDA publication in 2016:

- In Allston there were 2,341 undergraduate students living off-campus (3rd place) and 2,210 graduate students living off-campus (2nd place)
- In Brighton there were 1,554 undergraduate students living off-campus (5th place) and 2,360 graduate students living off-campus (1st place)

According to “Housing A Changing City – Boston 2030”, the Mayor’s goal is to create 16,000 new undergraduate student dorm beds, reducing the number of students living off-campus in Boston by 50 percent as well as creating dedicated housing for 2,500 additional graduate students.

According to a recent update from the City (October 9, 2014 - June 30, 2017) 5,664 dorm beds have been permitted and 3,072 are complete.
