Dr. Cassaday completed his undergraduate and medical training at the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

In 2010, he started Hematology/Oncology fellowship at the University of Washington and Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center.

He then joined the faculty at these institutions in 2014, with a focus on acute lymphoblastic leukemia in adults.

Since then, he has led several investigator-initiated and industry-sponsored clinical trials of various strategies for this disease, including novel agents and cellular therapies.

He has a particular interest in developing novel chemotherapy strategies for high-risk populations, including older adults and those with relapsed/refractory disease.

He has served on the National Comprehensive Cancer Network Guidelines Panel for Acute Lymphoblastic Leukemia and the Leukemia Working Group of the Southwest Oncology Group.
