

You need more time? Make BRAND NEW time!

Buildycrunken ('bil-dē-krəŋ-ken)

-verb

1. Creating time where there was not time before

Come do things all night long. Catch up on your stupid homework, hack computers with Collexion (collexion.net), knit all of your Christmas presents with a local Stitch 'n Bitch group (rebellegirls.com), lab reports? don't get me started... read that pile of books you've been putting off so you can buy new books, design a robot, sketch, play board games, write a novel (nanowrimo.org), play your Nintendo DS, play card games, make an iPhone application (it's easier than you think), finish your senior design project, start your senior design project, write a grant, read comics, write a comic, write papers, and read to a stranger, plan a heist, write a symphony (midi is fine too), pretend you're working so your parents will let you start that blog you've always wanted to start, learn a new language, edit those photos you've been taking since you were your local Congressperson about nothing in particular, write a screenplay, omg you haven't started your paper yet, mention your thesis, pray for forgiveness, inventory your bones because your health insurance only covers you for more than 200, write a thank-you letter to everyone you can think of, drink a stupid amount of coffee and clear your to-do list, invent

Buildycrunken #1: Hocus Focus

All night long

Nov 6, 9pm

- Nov 7, 9am

at 3rd St. Stuff Coffee