PRESENTS:

THINKING AND TEACHING REPRODUCTIVE CHOICE IN A POST-DOBBS CLIMATE

A ROUNDTABLE

This roundtable will identify and break down current trends in representations of reproductive choice across all genres of television. We will also ask our panel strategies for teaching these representations—and reproductive choice in the media more broadly—amidst the larger far-right efforts to rewrite and control educational curricula.

Panelists include:

Renee Bracey Sherman
Founder,
We Testify

Steph Herold, MPH
Researcher,
Abortion Onscreen Project e
University of California,
San Francisco

Melissa Huerta
Associate Professor,
Denison University

Rachael Knudsen
Producer,
16 and Pregnant

Moderated by:

Hunter Hargraves
Associate Professor,
California State University,
Fullerton
