Market View

The market opened with a negative gap of around 30 points and remained in the 3845-3820 range all through the day. The market slipped in the second half of the session to 3817 and recovered marginally before closing at 3829. The volumes in the Nifty futures were extremely lacklustre as compared to the average volumes of the last few trading sessions indicating lack of participation in the market. The futures added around 7.6 lakh shares in the open interest toward the short side. On the options front, the implied volatility of the call options increased while the implied volatility of the put options remained constant with long accumulation in the calls and writing in the puts. The market is likely to take a direction after the Infosys results. The key support levels for the Nifty are 3800 and 3760 and there will be a resistance around 3850.
