For 3QFY2012, Reliance Communication (RCom) reported a muted set of results. The company's net sales grew by just $0.7 \%$ qoq even when $3 Q$ is a seasonally strong quarter for telecom companies. RCom hiked voice tariffs on both on-net and off-net calls for GSM subscribers; and on CDMA, the company raised tariffs on only off-net calls. Since the hike has been undertaken largely on the GSM subscriber base, the impact of the same was less as compared to its peers, as the company is primarily CDMA based and, thus, tariff hike has not showed any signs of improvement in the APRU of RCom. Due to lack of triggers except the monetization of its Infratel business, which can cut down its debt by more than half, we remain Neutral on the stock.
Quarterly performance: RCom reported revenue of ₹ $4,824 \mathrm{cr}$, up merely $0.7 \%$ qoq, led by poor performance across all its business segments. Wireless revenue came in at ₹ $4,447 \mathrm{cr}$, up just $0.7 \%$ qoq on the back of qoq flat average revenue per minute (ARPM) at ₹ $0.45 / \mathrm{min}$ and a $1.3 \%$ qoq decline in minutes of usage (MOU) to 224 min , whose fall was slightly arrested by subscriber growth of $2.0 \%$ qoq. Thus, ARPU slipped by $1.0 \%$ qoq to ₹ 100 in 3QFY2012 from ₹ 101 in 2QFY2012. Overall EBITDA margin improved by 35 bp qoq to $28.7 \%$ as employee costs and access charges declined by $10.9 \%$ and $7.2 \%$ qoq, respectively. However, network operating expenses grew by $8.8 \%$ qoq (includes one-time cost of ₹90cr).
Outlook and valuation: Going forward, we expect RCom's mobile segment to record a $10.3 \%$ CAGR in its subscribers over FY2010-13E and ARPM to stabilize at ₹ $0.45 / \mathrm{min}$ in FY2013. Currently, the company is striving to reduce the debt level in its books and has again kept its stance of selling stake in its tower assets, which might help the company to deleverage its balance sheet and reduce debt and can be a positive trigger to the stock price. However, various other announcements of selling tower assets were made earlier as well, but none of them materialized. Also, RCom is trying to restructure debt in its books to reduce interest costs. We maintain our Neutral view on the stock.

Global enterprise segment: RCom has combined its global and broadband business under one segment called global enterprise. During the quarter, the global enterprise segment witnessed just $0.7 \%$ qoq revenue growth with revenue coming at $₹ 2,352 \mathrm{cr}$. EBITDA margin of this segment declined by 17 bp qoq to 24.2\%.

EBITDA margin improves slightly

During the quarter, RCom's overall EBITDA margin improved by 35bp qoq to $28.7 \%$ as employee costs and access charges declined by $10.9 \%$ and $7.2 \%$ qoq, respectively. However, network operating expenses grew by $8.8 \%$ qoq to ₹ $1,496 \mathrm{cr}$, which includes one-time cost of ₹90cr. EPM for the quarter stood flat qoq at ₹0.12/min.

Exhibit 10: Opex break up

[^1]PAT came in at ₹ 186 cr , down $26.1 \%$ qoq, primarily impacted by significantly higher interest cost of ₹378cr in 3QFY2012 vs. ₹227cr in 2QFY2012. However, PAT was aided by lower depreciation expenses (₹978cr in 3QFY2012 vs. $₹ 1,054$ cr in 2QFY2012) due to change in depreciation policy (to SLM) in its subsidiary - Reliance Telecom.

Outlook and valuation

RCom hiked voice tariffs on both on-net and off-net calls for GSM subscribers; and on CDMA, the company raised tariffs on only off-net calls. Since the hike has been undertaken largely on the GSM subscriber base, the impact of the same was less as compared to its peers, as the company is primarily CDMA based and, thus, tariff hike has not showed any signs of improvement in APRU of RCom. Going forward, we expect RCom's mobile segment to record a 10.3\% CAGR in subscribers over FY2010-13E and ARPM to stabilize at ₹ $0.45 / \mathrm{min}$ in FY2013.

Currently, the company is striving to reduce the debt level in its books and has again kept its stance of selling stake in its tower assets, which might help the company to deleverage its balance sheet and reduce debt and can be a positive trigger to the stock price. However, various other announcements of selling tower assets were made earlier as well, but none of them materialized. Also, RCom is trying to restructure debt in its books to reduce interest costs. We maintain our Neutral view on the stock.
