Sterlite Industries: Management cancels restructuring following negative shareholder feedback

Rahul Jain : rahulk.jain@kotak.com, +91-22-6634-1318

- Cancellation of the proposed group restructuring due to 'changes in global financial markets and investor feedback'
- We view the cancelation as a positive step—revise our SOTP-based target price to Rs540/share (Rs460/share previously); revise our rating to REDUCE (SELL previously)
- Zinc and aluminum prices have come off significantly—we expect weakness to continue

The management of Sterlite Industries (SIL) has decided not to pursue the proposed restructuring scheme announced on September 9, 2008, by which the company's aluminum and power assets were to be transferred to a group company, Madras Aluminum Company, for stock and the Copper assets of Konkola Copper Mines were to be taken over by Sterlite, which we believed was negative for the minority shareholders of Sterlite Industries. Given the cancellation of the restructuring, we revise our SOTP-based target price to Rs540/share (Rs460/share previously) and revise our rating to REDUCE from Sell previously. However, weak commodity prices would put pressure on earnings going forward, which have also been mitigated to an extent by the weak Indian Rupee.

Proposed restructuring cancelled

The management of SIL believes that in the interest of 'changes in global financial markets and investor feedback' it has decided not to pursue the proposed restructuring plan announced earlier. The proposed restructuring has been discussed in detail in our earlier note dated Sep 10, 2008, following which we downgraded the stock to SELL. We view the new announcement positively and revise our target price and rating on the stock to Rs540/share. While ideally, the stock price should trade at its pre-restructuring price of Rs600/share, global peers have de-rated significantly during the past two weeks.

We value Sterlite at Rs540/share based on SOTP valuation

Given the sharp correction in global commodity stocks, we value the various businesses of Sterlite at 4X FY2010E EV/EBITDA—in line with global peers. We value the stake in subsidiaries after applying a 20% holding company discount.

Commodity prices will likely remain under pressure

Aluminum prices have weakened significantly over the past few months and are now down by 24% since the peak of US$3,341 in mid-July. A stronger US dollar, lower oil prices, weakening demand, and higher aluminum inventories have all helped in lowering prices. In fact, prices have reached a level where production cutbacks especially for the marginal Chinese aluminum producers, which are operating at US$2,650/ton - US$2,750/ton cannot be ruled out, lending downside support.

Zinc prices have continued to lag over the past several months with prices persistently drifting downwards. Zinc prices have been holding steady at US$1,750/ton off late, which will likely move downwards given weak fundamentals. According to CRU estimates, the first-half refined zinc market saw a surplus of 133,000 tons (on a former-Western world basis) to be followed by an even greater second-half surplus of 240,000 tons. We believe that this surplus scenario would persist and will further pressure zinc prices. Recent mine closures will likely provide downside support in the long term.

SOTP-based target price of Sterlite Industries is Rs540/share
