For 3QFY2012, Graphite India's (GIL) top line came in at ₹436cr, registering $29.2 \%$ yoy growth. EBITDA margin contracted by 137 bp yoy to $20.3 \%$. EBITDA increased by $21.1 \%$ yoy to ₹ 89 cr . PAT increased by $27.1 \%$ to ₹ 56 cr on the back of higher revenue. Going ahead, the scenario is positive for the company, as it has started steel production again in June 2011 (post the shutdown) and is showing a strong rising trend. We maintain our Buy view on the stock.

Strong sales growth momentum continues: GIL reported strong sales growth in 3QFY2012. The company's revenue increased by $29.2 \%$ yoy to $₹ 436 \mathrm{cr}$. The graphite segment, which contributed around $85.6 \%$ to the company's total revenue, registered strong growth of $27.1 \%$ yoy to ₹ 373 cr , while the steel segment managed a $15.8 \%$ yoy increase to $₹ 30 \mathrm{cr}$. Sequentially also, the steel segment's sales increased by $6.7 \%$ on the back of volume growth. The company's OPM declined by 137bp yoy to $20.3 \%$ due to increased raw-material cost, which grew to $54.2 \%$ as a percentage of sales vs. $51.1 \%$ in 3QFY2011. PAT increased by $27.1 \%$ yoy to $₹ 56 \mathrm{cr}$. Despite a 137 bp yoy contraction in OPM, PAT margin only declined by 21 bp yoy to $12.9 \%$ due to lower tax provision and higher other income. Tax rate declined to $32.1 \%$ of PBT in 3QFY2012 vs. $33.2 \%$ of PBT in 3QFY2011, while other income increased by $96.8 \%$ to $₹ 7 \mathrm{cr}$ in 3QFY2012 vs. ₹ 4 cr in 3QFY2011.

Outlook and valuation: We remain positive on the prospects of GIL, owing to strong demand from steel manufacturers. Realizations are also set to increase, as global players have hiked their prices recently. We expect GIL to post a $19.2 \%$ CAGR in revenue over FY2011-13E and PAT to witness a 17.7\% CAGR over the same period. At the CMP, the stock is trading at attractive valuations of 0.9 x its FY2013E BV, respectively. We have valued the stock at its five-year median of $1.1 x$ one-year forward book value to arrive at a target price of ₹102. We maintain our Buy recommendation on the stock.

Segment-wise performance

During the quarter, the graphite and carbon segment posted a $27.1 \%$ yoy increase in its revenue to ₹ 373 cr . The segment posted EBIT margin of $22.3 \%$, up 377 bp yoy and 635 bp qoq.

The steel segment's sales increased by $15.8 \%$ yoy and $6.7 \%$ qoq to $₹ 30 \mathrm{cr}$. The segment reported profit of ₹3.1cr at the EBIT level in 3QFY2012 compared to profit of ₹3.1cr in 3QFY2011.

The power segment posted an $11.7 \%$ yoy decline in revenue to $₹ 8 \mathrm{cr}$. Generation of power at hydro electrical plants is seasonal in nature. EBIT margin for the segment came in at $73.8 \%$, down 727 bp yoy.

During the quarter, the company witnessed increased input costs other than needle coke. Average capacity utilization increased to $103 \%$ in 3QFY2012 from $84 \%$ in 3QFY2011.

Strong revenue growth at 29.2\% yoy

GIL has been maintaining a strong growth rate in its sales over the past few quarters. In 3QFY2012, the company's top line increased by $29.2 \%$ yoy to $₹ 436 \mathrm{cr}$. The graphite segment, which contributed around $85.6 \%$ to the total revenue, registered strong growth of $27.1 \%$ yoy to $₹ 373 \mathrm{cr}$, while the steel segment managed a $15.8 \%$ yoy increase to $₹ 30$ cr. Sequentially also, the steel segment's sales increased by $6.7 \%$ on the back of volume growth. This performance was primarily due to increased graphite electrode price realizations in rupee terms, coupled with significantly higher volumes. Electrode sales volumes increased by $19 \%$ yoy during the quarter. This increase was driven by the domestic as well as exports market. Export sales volumes in particular grew by $28 \%$ yoy during the quarter.

Exhibit 3: Sales trend

EBITDA improves but margin declines

The company's EBITDA increased by $21.1 \%$ yoy and $17.2 \%$ qoq to $₹ 89 \mathrm{cr}$ on the back of higher revenue during the quarter. OPM declined by 137 bp yoy during the quarter to $20.3 \%$. The decline was due to a substantial increase in raw-material costs during the quarter. We expect the company's OPM to increase in the coming quarters, with the steel division contributing to the top line again and currency stabilizing at current levels.

PAT up by 27.1\% yoy

PAT increased by $27.1 \%$ yoy to $₹ 56 \mathrm{cr}$. Despite a 137 bp yoy contraction in OPM, PAT margin only declined by 21 bp yoy to $12.9 \%$ due to lower tax provision and higher other income. Tax rate declined to $32.1 \%$ of PBT in 3QFY2012 vs. $33.2 \%$ of PBT in 3QFY2011, while other income increased by $96.8 \%$ to ₹ 7 cr in 3QFY2012 vs. ₹4cr in 3QFY2011.

Investment arguments

GIL set to ride on the industry's rebound: The graphite electrodes industry is expected to grow faster, compared to EAF steel production over the next few years, as the de-stocking of graphite electrodes inventory at steel manufacturers' end is expected to reverse. GIL, with capacity expansion from $78,000 \mathrm{mt} /$ year to $98,000 \mathrm{mt} /$ year, to be completed by FY2012E, is well poised to reap the benefits of this growth. We expect GIL's market share to increase to $9.7 \%$ by FY2013E and top line to grow at a 19.2\% CAGR over FY2011-13E due to this expansion.

Strong labor cost advantages: GIL has strong labor cost advantages compared to its global peers, as other companies have their plants at locations where labor costs are significantly higher compared to India. SGL Carbon SE, the largest global player, has plants located mainly across Europe and North America. GrafTech Ltd., the world's second largest player, has plants located in France, Spain, South Africa, Brazil and Mexico. In FY2011, GIL's employee cost was $\sim 9 \%$ of sales, whereas it was almost $27 \%$ (CY2010) for SGL. Historically, GIL has passed on a part of this advantage to gain market share. However, with the rate of market share addition expected to slow down, we expect GIL to retain a larger part of this cost advantage and, thereby, improve its margins over historical average levels.

Strong entry barriers: The global graphite electrodes industry is characterized by a high level of consolidation, with the top six players accounting for over $70 \%$ of the world's total installed capacity. The balance capacity is owned by motley of small players. The highly consolidated nature of the industry is due to the barriers for new entrants. For instance, only the top global players have the technology to manufacture high-quality ultra high power (UHP) graphite electrodes. The industry is marked by a relationship and referral-based model. A new entrant has to prove the quality of its products by supplying to a steel manufacturer and then get referral and word-of-mouth publicity for the products from the manufacturer. Another barrier for new as well as some of the existing players is the high cost of setting up a greenfield graphite electrodes manufacturing facility.

Outlook and valuation

Global steel production scaled new highs in 2011 and is expected to grow further in the years to come, which bodes well for graphite electrode manufacturers as well. Global players are now operating at high utilization rates of $\sim 75 \%$. Recently, they have also announced price hikes that would allow GIL to follow suit and, hence, benefit GIL's margins. At the CMP, the stock is trading at attractive valuations of $0.9 \times$ FY2013E BV. We have valued the stock at its five-year median of $1.1 x$ one-year forward book value to arrive at a target price of ₹ 102 . We maintain our Buy recommendation on the stock.
