VIEW POINT: BUFFET TO THE RESCUE

You have only heard about Warren Buffet but don't know, what the Oracle of Omaha looks like, today will be the opportunity to see him on the idiot box as electronic media goes gaga over his offer to take on the risk of AAA rated municipal bonds worth $800 billion from the clobbered bond insurers. While one insurer has refused, the other two have not responded. Even if the offer is not accepted, it creates confidence that the problem could be solved.

This is positive for our markets. Our markets should open with a flourish and rise further intraday. China, which was expected to open around 5-7% lower to play catch with the rest of the Asian markets, which had fallen 7 to 10% when China was closed for holidays, is down 3% today, which is acceptable. Our markets are likely to do well as shorts scamper for cover. However, switch off your bullish stance if you see the Sensex falls below the 16450 mark.

THE INDICATORACROSS THE ATLANTIC

U.S. stocks on Tuesday headed to their biggest gain so far this month, with the equities market drawing a psychological lift from billionaire investor Warren Buffett's proposed buyout of bond insurers' liabilities

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose more than 220 points before settling up 133.40, or 1.09%, at 12,373.41. The S&P 500 ended ahead by 9.73 points, or 0.73%, at 1348.86.

The Nasdaq Composite stumbled in the final hour due to losses in Apple and Research in Motion to finish 0.02 point lower at 2320.04.

The gains in blue chips came after Buffett, the billionaire head of Berkshire Hathaway said he had offered to reinsure $800 billion of municipal bonds insured by Ambac, MBIA and FGIC. In a televised interview, he said one of the insurers turned down the offer and the other two hadn't responded.

Some observers believe the so-called monolines are unlikely to accept the bid, because it covers only the best part of their portfolios while leaving them stuck with the more troubled portions. However, the fact that one of the most respected financial minds in the world was indicating his willingness to step in and help stabilize the struggling insurers' situation inspired traders to do some buying

Despite the pitch, MBIA's stock tumbled 15.3% to $11.50, and Ambac ended down 15.1% to $8.90.

Still, the financial sector benefited from the news. The NYSE Financial Sector Index rose 1.6%, and the Nasdaq Financial 100 advanced 1%.

Elsewhere, traders were treated to news that the government has worked out a deal, titled Project Lifeline, that will suspend foreclosures for 30 days while lenders and homeowners reach new loan terms.

Another headliner was General Motors, which posted a $772 million loss for the fourth quarter amid weakness in the U.S. The biggest domestic automaker also said it would offer buyouts to 74,000 hourly workers who are represented by the United Auto Workers union.

Shares of GM surrendered gains late in the session to finish down 52 cents, or 1.9%, at $26.60.

Following the closing bell, Applied Materials, Wynn Resorts and Buffalo Wild Wings were reporting quarterly results.

Among analyst actions, UBS upgraded Time Warner to buy from neutral, and Bear Stearns raised its rating for Schlumberger to outperform from peer perform. Time Warner rose 3.8% to $16.22, and Schlumberger climbed 1.2% to $81.49.

Additionally, investors are awaiting remarks from Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke, who will testify Thursday before a U.S. Senate committee on banking and housing.

Commodity prices declined following a run-up last time out. Crude oil was off 81 cents to end at $92.78 a barrel, and gold futures lost $15.60 to finish at $911.10 an ounce.
