Investment Summary

- Markets crack at last, on commodity price fall, fears of liquidity contraction, oil prices
  - Sensex has fallen ~800 points in the last 3 trading days
  - Market risk not yet in earnings growth, but in Volatility due to externalities
- Domestic economic trajectory & Liquidity remain strong despite:
  - Outcome of recent State polls
  - Oil prices & interest rate hikes
  - Sensex valuations at 18x FY07EPS of Rs 669
- Trend-Reversal unlikely due to continuing relative attractiveness of Equities vs other fin assets, & equity allocation to EMs/ India. However, markets expected to remain volatile
- Recommend retaining undervalued large-caps.
- Top Absolute Buys*: ONGC, Rel Comm, Suzlon Energy, Tata Steel, Sterlite Ind., Hindalco, Grasim, PNB, MTNL, BEL, Bank of Baroda, I-flex, Sesa Goa, Pantaloon, Tata Tea
- Top Absolute Sells*: BHEL, HDFC Bank, Cipla, Ranbaxy, ACC, Dr Reddy's, Rel Capital, Tata Power, Zee, HPCL, Glaxo Pharma, UltraTech Cement

The continuing Search for a black cat in a dark attic

Source of Funds

Global trade/ currency regimes

- Managed currencies + CA surplus (Japan, China, Middle East etc.) offsetting interest hike pressures
- No proxy to USD as yet

Wealth effect

- Asset values esp US
- Commodity prices eg Middle East, Russia
- GDP growth in US, China, Russia offsetting lack of growth elsewhere in absolute terms

Principal erosion fear

Lay Global investor filling EM institutional equity sack

Alternate use of Funds

- Physical Investment: options still limited; flow to financial markets
- Equity TINA other asset classes also high priced, interest rate hike more deleterious in these
- Emerging Markets still a better class vs Dev. mkts

Resurgence of Development in monarchies/ exstate-run ecos?

Interest rate cycle & asset bubble prick?

Geo political risks in EMs?

EM Institutional equity fund managers

Stock performance fear: Expensive equity valuations!!!

Wrong advice fear: Searching for reasons for liquidity reversal !!!

Liquidity reversal fears: China, US, Japan

Currencies:

- Managed currencies: A policy reversal could exacerbate interest rate uptrend. China unlikely to allow rapid Yuan revaluation risking deflation/ de-growth a la Japan in the 90s
- Alternate reserve currency: Anemic Euro growth, deflationary Yen-land, over-heated Yuan = unlikely successors

Interest rates:

- With the Fed nearing the end of its tightening cycle ... will other central banks follow suit?
- Project economics: Much EM Capex not extravagant, unlike in earlier decades. Interest rate hikes not likely to be substantial enough to jeopardize physical investments in EMs, even in China. Non-addressal of financial sector reforms in China remains the key issue v/s interest rate effect
- Alternative investments: Bonds unlikely to become the preferred investment class in a rising interest rate scenario.
  However, interest rate hikes could prick Liquidity supply (wealth effect) of asset bubble

Resurgence of Physical Development:

While monarchies and ex-State economies are supposedly sucking in liquidity flows into physical development, aggregate amounts likely to remain small till geo-political clime becomes more conducive

Geo political risks to EM Equity investing:

- Iran, Iraq remain at epicenter of oil and political worries. The liquidity bowl could contract
- But relative attractiveness of equities to bonds doesn't yet change as these are cataclysmic events, not fore-runners to a depression, which would raise the premium for bonds over equities

EMs vulnerable to Liquidity Contraction; depends on inscrutable China's measures ultimately pricking asset bubble

Domestic imperatives

Positives

- Liquidity
- Economy

Negatives

- Hamstrung Ruling party
- Oil price & Interest rates
- Sensex valuations not cheap:
  - ▶ 17.7x FY07E EPS of Rs.669
  - EPS growth in 06/07 = 23%
  - EPS growth in 07/08 =14%

Positives....

Liquidity:

- Domestic: Draw out of domestic altricial investors:
  - Under-penetrated
  - No alternative inflation-hedges
  - Excellent capital gains tax regime (long term=0, short term= 10%)
- Paper Supply: Post state elections, go-slow on PSU divestment program (~USD 8-10bn), may partially alleviate risk of paper supply
- Overseas: India is ONE haven which could even benefit in global slowdowns:
  - 2/3rd of GDP is consumption led, unlike all other EMs
  - ▶ Least dependent on global trade. And (net) exports are NOT consumer products or commodities India's Services and Project exports are lower end, whose volume growth offsets rate cuts during slowdowns

Economy:

- GDP: Services led economy, favourable demographics, globally competitive Corporate sector
- Consumption & wealth effect: New geographies (non- metros) likely to add to Services-led Consumption growth: Confluence of penetration of transportation, telecom, electrification, rural lending, property development plans

Economic trajectory and liquidity remain favourable

Post-polls, can the govt push reforms?

- State polls this month: Left's thumping majority decelerating policy momentum?
  - Broad thrust to remain, specific areas could be impacted
  - However, breakthru reforms ruled out, eg infrastructure, agriculture, labour. Expected Pension & insurance sector reforms may have increasing hurdles
  - A critical factor is: which CPI (M) boss calls the shots Prakash Karat, the hardliner or the pragmatic Buddhadeb Bhattacharjee?
  - The Govt can use statutes and move through executive orders and obviate parliamentary approval eg in lifting FII/ FDI limits
- Policy liberalisation may still get a nod (with caveats) in:
  - Retail (trading sub-sector)
  - Pension sector: Regulator to be set up
- ...and some may not, eg PSU divestment

Risk is loss of political momentum and not backtracking on reforms

Oil Prices: Will the govt bell the cat?

The govt's dilemma:

Indian basket of crude oil at ~USD70/ bbl: Total under-recoveries: ~USD18-20bn

The likely move: Consumers unlikely to share higher burden post-polls

- A combination of: (Subsidy from upstream + price hike+ issuance of oil bonds and duty cuts)
- A hike in Retail prices i.e Diesel & Petrol by Rs.2-4/ ltr, Rs.2/ ltr in kerosene and Rs.50 on LPG: could fetch ~$3.7-4.7bn
- Subsidy from upstream cos ~$5.4bn
- Issuance of oil bonds, duty cuts ~$6.1bn
- Diesel and petrol prices owe ~40 and 50% respectively to taxes. However, over half the taxes fall under state purview
  - Excise + SED: Rs.13/ltr on petrol, Rs.5/ltr on diesel: Can be tinkered to soften the retail blow
  - Sales tax: Wt.avg rate: 26.7% for Petrol and 21% for Diesel – Can be reduced to a uniform rate
  - Oil cess could be unwound to lower the burden

Size of the oil deficit at various crude prices

- □ LPG/Kero. Petrol/Diesel
- The price hike will have a direct+indirect impact of ~40-50bps on inflation (keeping inflation well around RBI forecast of 5-5.5% for FY07)
- Fiscal impact likely to be ~30-40bps on the fiscal deficit
- Pressure on INR could be exacerbated/ offset by global inflows

Post-polls, Oil sector & Govt will have to bear a larger burden yet again, like in FY 06 (Oil sector 63%, Govt 25% and Consumers 12%)

Recommendation

- Markets nervously poised due to high F&O position, vertical climb of Sensex, fears of liquidity contraction, etc
- However, a Depression or a reversal of India-advantage unlikely
- ⇒ Hence, recommend bias to liquid Large-caps:
