VIEW POINT: LOWER CRUDE, NOT MUCH RELIEF SEEN

Crude prices tumbled $3.34 a barrel Tuesday to settle at $128.85, creating a mild rally in the US stocks, which saw the Dow gain 68 points. Further crude slide can definitely cheer up stocks. But today is inventory day and it is customary for Crude to lie low ahead of the numbers. So much need not be read into Tuesday's slide in the commodity that has wrecked havoc with the markets.

Back home, punters in the derivative arena have been on a retreat. The 4900 Puts that were written were covered and instead 4800 series Puts were bought, making it very clear that there is no conviction among the bulls. While the markets could recover in the opening trade, I don't see them closing above Tuesday's high, which should act as a supply over hang point. IT stocks could do well.

To bail out the public sector oil marketing companies (OMCs) from the estimated under recoveries of Rs.2,25,000 crore for the current fiscal due to continued surge in global crude prices, the Government is considering a combination of measures including an option of a cess or surcharge on income-tax and corporate tax.

At a meeting between the Finance Minister, Mr P. Chidambaram, and the Petroleum Minister, Mr. Murli Deora, the proposal of a cess on the lines of the education cess was discussed among other relief options, which include issuance of more oil bonds, rationalisation of duties and an increase in auto fuel prices.

The Petroleum Ministry is understood to have proposed a hike in petrol price by Rs.10 a litre, diesel by Rs.5/litre and that of LPG by Rs.50/cylinder to bring down the revenue losses suffered by the OMCs.

The proposal to impose a cess follows the Finance Ministry's reluctance to cut duties on crude oil and petroleum products as it would have to forgo revenues.

THE INDICATORACROSS THE ATLANTIC

U.S. stocks on Tuesday jumped higher as crude-oil futures sunk to one-week lows, helping equities steer away from the market's worst weekly drop since February.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average bumped ahead in the morning, then dipped into the red at midday before clambering up 68.72 points, or 0.55%, at 12,548.35. All told, the index swung in a range of some 130 points. The S&P 500 added 9.42 points, or 0.68%, at 1385.35.

The Nasdaq Composite performed best, jumping 36.57 points, or 1.5%, at 2481.24, thanks in part to strengthening technology stocks such as Apple, Amazon.com and Google.

Simultaneously, crude oil shed $3.34 to settle at $128.85 a barrel. That seemed to weigh on the Dow's oil-and-gas components, Exxon Mobil and Chevron, shares of which were off 1% and 1.1%, respectively.

Gold futures lost $17.90 to $907.90 an ounce. The U.S. dollar firmed by 0.4% against the euro at $1.5699 and tacked on 0.8% against the yen to 104.28.

Early on, the Commerce Department said sales of one-family homes in April jumped 3.3% from the prior month's downwardly revised figure to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 526,000. That also represents a 42% drop from last year, but it's a bit better than the economists' consensus of 520,000. Also, the amount of time needed to clear through the current inventory is now estimated at 10.6 months, based on the current sales pace, down from 11 months in March.

On the other hand, Standard & Poor's/Case-Shiller indicated that prices of U.S. homes tumbled 14.1% nationwide last quarter, a record decline for the 20-year-old index.

The Conference Board also said its consumer-confidence survey showed another decline to 57.2 in May from 62.8 in April -- worse than the measure of 60.0 sought by economists.

San Francisco Fed President Janet Yellen said the central bank's interest-rate cuts over the past few months have been deep enough, and that the actions should be sufficient to encourage "moderate economic growth" later in the year. The Fed has brought down the benchmark lending rate by 325 basis points since September in an effort to stymie the U.S. economic slowdown.

Back on the companies side, UBS was among the big decliners, losing 5.8% after officially filing for its previously announced discounted $15.3 billion rights offering. In the prospectus for the deal, the Swiss bank said that it could incur further losses on positions it continues to hold in the mortgage and real estate markets, both in and out of the U.S., having already taken hits on such positions in the past.

Fellow Swiss bank Credit Suisse was off 2.5% to $50.90.

As for analyst actions, Bank of America and Bernstein each slashed their second-quarter bottom-line estimates for Lehman Brothers, Morgan Stanley and Goldman Sachs, with both analysts citing concerns about more writedowns. BofA cut Lehman's target, in particular, to a loss from a prior profit expectation.

Still, Lehman shares shook off early losses to lift by 3%, and Morgan stock was up 1%. Goldman rose 0.7%.
