The main topics of the conference:

1. E-learning: challenges of modern information society
2. E-learning infrastructures
3. ICT in education for all
4. Pedagogical issues of e-learning and instructional design
5. ICT in pre-school and school education.
6. E-learning teachers’ training

Participation in the conference ITEA-2014 is free of charges for all participants.

Conference structure:

The first conference day (November 25), international day, will be focused on international experience and collaboration, thus presentations and communication will be in English.

On the second day (November 26), local day the conference participants will discuss issues related to the Ukrainian e-learning cases and trends, experience in ICT innovations, and other problems of national science and education, therefore presentations and communication will be in Ukrainian.

Participation in the ITEA 2014 conference requires registration at the conference website <http://itea-conf.org.ua/2014>

If you would like to participate only in the international day, you must register at the English version of the conference website: <http://itea-conf.org.ua/2014/registration>

If you would like to participate only in the local day, you must register at the Ukrainian version of the conference website: <http://itea-conf.org.ua/2014/ua/registration>

If you would like to participate in both days you must register on both English and Ukrainian versions of the conference website and you will be allowed to submit two papers, one in English and one in Ukrainian.

Papers, slides and videos of the presentations will be published at the conference website. Selected papers will be published in the conference proceedings.

Participation in the conference is possible in on-site and distance formats. Distant participants will have the opportunity to make their presentations and answer the questions through the video conferencing.

Video broadcasts of the presentations will be available at the website of the conference. Visitors of the website will be able to send questions to the presenters.

Paper submission and editing will be performed through the Google Docs service. Within one day after registration each author will get a link to access an individual template in Google Docs to edit and submit the paper.

Do not send your papers via email! Submissions sent via email will not be considered.
