

The Indian Institute of Welding

The Indian Institute of Welding (IIW-India) is a non-profit professional body, established in 1966 to promote the interest of welding industry and practicing welding professionals in India. As the sole Indian member society of the International Institute of Welding, IIW-India represents Indian interests in development of global welding education/certification programs and formulation of international welding standards apart from participating in exchange of technical and scientific information. IIW-India has its headquarters at Kolkata and has thirteen branches located at key industrial cities. The Mumbai Branch of IIW-India, with its large individual and corporate membership, is one of the Institute's most active branches. It has been promoting the interests of professionals and industries associated with welding in Western India. The branch conducts technical lectures, refresher courses, training programmes, workshops and seminars on a regular basis for its members, engineers and welding practitioners. Please visit www.iiwindia.com for further information.

Annual Branch Seminar - Mumbai Branch

The objective of this seminar is to provide a forum for professionals from industries, academia and research institutions to share and enhance the knowledge base in welding science and technology. This annual event of the Branch also provides excellent networking opportunities for welding professionals. The one-day Seminar is scheduled on Saturday, 14 February, 2015.

Theme - "Advances in Joining Technology"

Welding is currently applied in manufacturing of a wide variety of products using advanced materials, processes, design and automation. The need for producing extremely high-quality welds, increasing productivity and utilizing a wide range of materials are the challenges before the welding industry. This seminar aims to deliberate on these challenges in the field of "Advances in Joining Technology"

Seminar Topics:

- Welding Management
- Welding/Joining Processes and Equipment
- Consumables and Weldability of Materials
- Robotics and Automation of Welding Fabrication
- Design and Manufacture of Welded Structures
- Inspection and Testing of Welded Joints
- Hard-facing and Surface Engineering
- Welding Education and Training
- Safety and Health in Welding and Cutting
