

the Barnraiser

Barnraisers enjoy a nightly communal meal at the LUMCON dining hall -- photo by @stevie

2016 Annual Barnraising will be held November 11-13th

By @stevie & @liz

LUMCON -- Save the date to join Public Lab at the 2016 Annual Barnraising event in Cocodrie, Louisiana! The Barnraising is an unparalleled, high bandwidth event where people from different regions exchange hard-won technical knowledge, tactics, and stories in person. At the Annual Barnraising, participants will:

- Improve social ties through in-person collaboration,
- Participate in in-depth exploration of local environmental issues and ongoing community research,
- Advance technical knowledge, and
- Work on projects such as environmental hardware and software prototyping.

Highlights from the 2015 Barnraising

From the mouths of those who raised barns:

"Sessions brought together activists and tech developers"

"meeting new people & building relationships"

"I loved the lightning talks and the Q&A after presentations."

"a 5 out of 5!"

"Very rejuvenating."

"I am very thankful for this experience. It was wonderful."

"Expectations were exceeded."

"Excuse me, can I get a ride to Cocodrie?" -- photo by @warren

Keep an eye out for Registration!

Barnraising registration will open in September with an Early Bird Discount. Visit www.publiclab.org/barnraising for event updates. See you in November!

Organizers Summit this fall

The Organizer's Summit for all Public Lab organizers will be Wednesday, November 10th. (photo by @cfastie)