

a documentary by peter byck

carbon nation

a climate change solutions movie

[that doesn't even care if you believe in climate change]

FILM
SCREENING

Friday
October 7, 2011
5 p.m.

FREE
Admission,
Community
Welcome

Join the University of San Diego
for an exploration of the new low-carbon economy.
Hahn University Center Plaza and Forums

Tired of the doom-and-gloom news about climate change? Entrepreneurs and tree huggers alike will find common ground in the film, "Carbon Nation." This inspirational, optimistic, solutions-based, non-partisan documentary by director Peter Byck illustrates why it's smart to be a part of the new, low-carbon economy: it's good business, it strengthens national and energy security, and improves health and the environment.

5p.m. Carbon Reduction Expo

- Meet local carbon-busting community groups and businesses
- Check out the Nissan Leaf
- Volunteer with Grid Alternatives, featured in the film
- Learn about USD clubs and groups such as Be Blue Go Green

6p.m. Film and Q&A With the Director

- Introduction by Len R. Hering, Sr.
RADM, USN (RET), Vice President, Business Services and Administration
- Screening of "Carbon Nation"
- Q&A with Producer / Director Peter Byck

SPONSORED BY THE UNIVERSITY OF SAN DIEGO
OFFICE OF SUSTAINABILITY
This program is funded by California utility customers
under the auspices of the California Public Utilities Commission.
This is a School of Business Administration Passport event.
For free tickets, go to usd.eventbrite.com

