

About me

Sebastiano Turci

I'm Sebastiano Turci, I'm 16, I'm Italian and I'm going to describe my life and personality.

I live in Carpi, a town near Modena in the north of Italy; I attend the 11th school year, the 3rd one in a scientific high school.

I'm easy-going and friendly but a little bit introvert with people I don't know. With my friend or my relatives I'm friendly and generous but a bit sensitive sometimes, I always try to help them or make them have fun and laugh because the happier they are the happier I'm too. When I have to overcome a problem or reach a goal I'm a logical person and I try to analyse everything from different points of view. I have a great sense of duty and I don't like breaking the rules: when I have to do something I do it even if this means not to relax or to go to bed late in the night. I think respect is essential, this is the reason why I always try to be respectful, also with my friends and my relatives; obviously every situation has its own right behaviour, so with my friends I'm not as polite and respectful as I am with adults. I'm able to adapt my self to different situations and to new cultures (as I could verify when I travelled abroad) quite well. I'm very curious to know always something new especially about science and physics.

In my life for me it's crucial serenity and having always new incentives and people with whom I can share my ideas, my experiences and my goals.

My family is very important for me, it's composed by my mum Evelyn, my dad Paolo, my younger sister Zoe and me; with them I share my entire life, my time, my passions; they're my point of reference because I know they will be always present when I need help, even if they are furious with me or very far from me. Friendship is very important too: I think friends are the people who can make you enjoying yourself when you're sad, the people you share your time, your passions and grow with.

I love sports, I like watching and playing every kind of sport, in particular there's a sport I love and that is my greatest passion: motorsport and more exactly Formula 1. I love it and I would like to become an engineer to design racing cars, I wanted to become a racing driver but that has never come true. My other greatest passion is astrophysics, I'm very interested in stars, planets and black holes.

I like vary much travelling, visiting new places and discovering new cultures; I have travelled to different places as Tanzania, Greece, Spain, Amsterdam, Florida, France, Austria and Romania for a school exchange programme.

I would like to attend the school year abroad because I think it's a very important chance for my personal growth, to improve my English and to get in contact with different life-styles, people and culture, especially in California because from TV series and movies I could see how beautiful it is, for the nature the cities and the sparkling atmosphere, but I really would like to see it by myself.

Last summer in Sicily at the beach. My birthday party on August 10th

With my family, two years ago

With my friends

A boat journey with my sister

My friend Filippo and me in my garden

My ex Rugby Team

Mail address
sebastianoturci02@gmail.com