Sherefe has been bringing traditional music from Greece, Turkey, and the Middle East to Colorado audiences for nearly 25 years. They are the house band for Boulder's annual Greek festival and (normally) perform frequently throughout the year for dancing and listening. In this livestream concert, the band will treat you to a taste of different styles ranging from simple Greek island dance tunes, to deeply romantic urban songs, to complex Arabic compositions. After the concert, there will be a short talkback session in which band members will answer audience questions posed via chat.

Jesse Manno on bouzouki, baglama, oud, laouto, vocals, and percussion

James Hoskins on cello, gadulka, bouzouki, and vocals

Julie Lancaster on accordion, spoons, and vocals

Dexter Payne on clarinets, sax, and nay

Brett Bowen on dombeks and tapan
